STUDENT VOICE...

It is important that within the context of school that students know that they have a voice. To know that they will be heard and people will listen. It is also important that they realise that in having a voice there are protocols which need to be adhered to in order for their voice to resonate.

There are times when a conflict may arise in the playground that requires adult intervention, or a student finds something they feel compromises student safety. I have students come to my office to share their ideas, opinions and perspectives on a range of topics that are important to them and this goes way beyond asking me to help resolve a problem. They are aware that there are effective ways to communicate starting with being polite, respectful, and sensible – basic protocols.

There are instances where they come to share initiatives that require a decision from me and at these times I am reminded of a comment made by Monte Selby, an American educator and musician I heard speak at a conference....."When kids come to your door with a proposal, an idea, or an event that they want to organise don't just say no. Ask them "What do you need to do to make me say yes?" Wise words when giving students a voice that can ultimately translate into positive action.

believe they know that they have been heard, that I have listened and am prepared to support them in making their ideas a reality. But, they are also aware that they need to demonstrate considerable responsibility to ensure their voice translates into action, by finding out what they need to do to make me say yes.

So next time your children come to you with a proposal, idea or event they want to organise or see happen, ask them"What do you need to do to make me say yes?"

Have a restful weekend

YEAR 3 & 4 BASKETBALL TEAM SUCCESS

This term we have had our Year 3& 4 basketball team, Matahui Thunder join the local Tauranga competition for the age group. The students are really new to the game but under the careful guidance and coaching of Dave MacCalman, ably assisted by Sue Furness, they have gone from strength to strength. In fact, this week they won their third game in a row against a team that had previously beaten them. What an outstanding effort! We are immensely proud of this group of young athletes. In the near future they will be competing at a day long tournament in Tauranga which will be a new experience for them. We wish them continued success. Thank you to all the parents who have supporting the team on a weekly basis.

Bay of Plenty Symphonia Concert

Some of you have been asking whether Bay of Plenty Symphonia will present our popular Kids' Concert this year. So this is to advise you in good time that we are planning a change this year. We will present a FREE FAMILY CONCERT on Sunday 4th September at Otumoetai College. We hope lots of youngsters including those whose parents find it difficult to afford tickets to regular concerts, will come along with all their family and friends and join in the fun. And it will be fun, with the amazing acrobatic Mr Wizowski as guest conductor!

Further details will be available in due course, meanwhile if you have any questions please do ask!
